Local Horticulture Photographer's Lifetime Work Featured in New Gardening Book

(Upland, CA) Dragonflyer Press announces a new inspirational/gardening book—Garden Thoughts: Photographs, Quotes & Inspiration for the Gardener, by photographer, Gene Sasse.

Sasse is a professional photographer who has lived in the Inland Valley for many years. He is a horticulture specialist and has won many awards. His work appears in various international magazines, design annuals and book covers, including work for such companies as All American Rose Selections, Inc. (AARS), Weeks Roses and Proven Winners.

“The true great joy of gardening is to use the bountiful colors, textures and intricacies from nature as a three-dimensional medium—to mold and form your own masterpiece...Take a moment to contemplate this fine collection of photos and thoughts gathered by Gene Sasse and let your mind wander the possibilities,” says Tom Carruth, AARS winning rose hybridizer.

Garden Thoughts is the first title in a series of quote books about life, art and nature. It is an interpretation of how a garden expresses itself into words. “The book contains vibrant photographs of brilliant flowers, dancing trees, rippling water fountains and mystical gardens that are best expressed as a unique collaboration between art and nature. It combines the visual beauty of the garden with the sometimes thoughtful, sometimes witty...and often surprising written word to create a harmonious celebration of nature,” says Carolyn Hayes Uber, President/CEO of Dragonflyer Press.

The book retails for $14.95 and can be purchased at local garden centers such as Van Ness Water Gardens in Upland. It can also be found at local gift shops and bookstores or may be purchased online at Amazon.com and on the Dragonflyer Press website—www.dragonflyerpress.com.
